

□ Blue Dog Wilson Named a Congressional Centrist

Washington, DC -- This week, National Journal Magazine released its annual 'Vote Ratings' issue, which ranks all Members of Congress on a scale of Liberal to Conservative. Rep. Charlie Wilson (OH-6) has been rated as one of the Centrists in the House of Representatives coming in as the 192nd most liberal and the 239th most conservative. These rankings clearly demonstrate Wilson's independent and balanced approach to legislating.

In his second term in Congress, Rep. Wilson is known as a member who seeks common sense solutions and common ground as he often reaches across the aisle to put the needs and concerns of his district before the needs of a political party.

"I ran for office as a moderate and Washington hasn't changed that," Wilson said. "I vote my district and I always will. Ohioans are pretty frustrated with politics as usual. They deserve someone who's not afraid to take hard votes in their best interest. I feel that my vote ranking in Congress shows that's exactly what I do."
